OBJECTS AND REASONS

Money laundering has become a major problem in the modern world. Countries in the world have decided to work together against an increasingly sophisticated combination of techniques, use of experts and professionals to disguise the true ownership and control of illegal proceeds. In that respect, the United Republic has decided to join efforts of the international community by enacting a law a against such activities. The Bill makes proposals for a comprehensive and consistent legal framework of measures for combating money laundering in Tanzania.

The Bill is divided into VI major Parts.

Part I deals with preliminary matters, such as the short title of the Act, date of commencement and interpretation of certain words and terms used in the Bill.

Part II provides for the establishment of FIU, appointment of the Commissioner and the National Multi -Disciplinary Anti-Money Laundering Committee. It also provides for the duties, responsibilities and qualifications of persons to be appointed as the members. It also provide for office of the Commissioner and other staff of such bodies and the designation.

Provisions relating to the prohibition of money laundering and predicate offence are provided for in Part III of the Bill.

Part IV deals with the anti-money laundering supervision. There are proposals relating to mandatory obligation to reporting persons with regards to verification of customer's identity, establishment and maintenance of customer records, suspicious transactions, internal reporting procedures, preventive measures, tipping off, overriding of secrecy obligation and protection of reporting persons.

Provisions relating to sources of fund and financial year of the FIU, accounts and auditing are made under Part V of the Bill.

Part VI makes proposals for miscellaneous provisions which, includes immunity of members of FIU, the Committee and the staff.
